Upstate Poison Control Center presentation	Discussion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Lee Livermore of the Upstate Poison Control Center leads a discussion about inhalant abuse, a "silent epidemic." He shows a film and displays common household items that are abused. He notes that girls are more inclined toward abuse because of the great number of products aimed at females that can be abused. He said the best thing groups such as SCCUDD can do is start conversations about inhalant abuse and increase awareness and education. He said he will provide SCCUDD with copies of the video and a Power Point presentation, which can be shared with other agencies.

Next Steps	Discussion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Three possible areas for action are briefly discussed before being tabled: beer gardens at community events, a social host law and marijuana dispensary location restrictions. The discussion notes that 70 percent of survey respondents favor a social host law. We need to speak with the District Attorney's Office about this and also gather information about other counties' experiences with a social host law.

SCCUDD Updates	Discussion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A Shining Star Award was previously presented to Coalition member Veronica Mintegui for her involvement with SCCUDD. Tilden reports that she did a NARCAN training for Arnot-Ogden Health. In answer to a question, Kasprzyk notes that SCCUDD was invited by the Watkins Glen school district to attend a meeting of the Health & Wellness Program Advisory Committee. The group agrees this shows a recognition of the value of SCCUDD. A brief discussion about possible Shining Star candidates lists the Glen Mountain Market and the Odessa File. Kasprzyk reports that SCCUDD Project Coordinator Deborah Dalmat is seeking a different position with Public Health and that a good candidate for the coordinator's position has been identified. The new candidate will be meeting further with Kasprzyk and SCCUDD Executive Board members. Dalmat will help with the transition.
